The official Report of the VII Winter Olympic Games at Cortina d'Ampezzo in 1956, has just been published

There has been a long wait — eight years in fact. But the essential thing is that the official report of the Winter Games at Cortina has now been printed. Mr. Giulio Onesti, president of the Italian National Olympic Committee, in a circular which he addressed to the recipients of this report on July 22nd 1964, admitted with a frankness which merits forgiveness that 'for reasons beyond our control, unfortunately inevitable', this work — and it is indeed a work — has only just appeared.

This report, for that is what we must call it, is deserving of much praise, above all for its presentation and for the contents of what is a most carefully prepared volume. The illustrations and the text give an excellent picture of the successful Cortina Games.

Our congratulations are due to the authors, to the Italian National Olympic Committee and to its distinguished president, Mr. Onesti.

In conclusion, it should be mentioned that this report may be obtained at the price of 12 dollars plus postage from: The Italian Olympic Committee, Foro Italico, Rome.
