Who says there are no hazards in the air? On this lofty approach Miss Bertha May Kirk, of Louisville, has found hazards enough, but she figured a way to overcome them in her effort to get at the speckled beauties that lurk in this inviting pool just above the Kepler Cascade in the Firehole River of Yellowstone National Park. The stance is a bit doubtful at that.
A bit of action on the part of J. B. Cup team in a recent practice.

Washington judges decided that this was the winning combination in bathing suit and bathing girl. Do we hear a dissenter? (Kedel & Herbert)

Miss Glenna Collet of Providence, one of the best young golfers in the East, figured prominently in the recent Shenecossett championship. (Levick)

The insidious little insect has stung Miss Norma Tal-madge, and now she is on the links at Bayside, Long Island, every chance she gets. (International)

A new star in the eastern golfing firmament is Miss Harriet Shepard of Hartford. (Levick)

Chris Dunphy of Bretton Woods and elsewhere is rapidly edging into the circle of top-notchers.
Miss Margaret Cameron, one of the Pacific Coast's best, makes a fine recovery from a sand trap. (Underwood & Underwood)

Mr. and Mrs. John McE. Bowman are just arriving for the big horse show at Stamford, where their entries took several prizes. (Keystone)

Mrs. Carroll Wainwright, formerly Miss Edith Gould, finds the surf and sand at Atlantic City very inviting and enjoyable. (Kadet & Herbert)

Gilbert of the British Isles Davis match since arriving here. (Levick)

Mrs. C. V. Hitchins, a contestant in the recent championship, who holds the women's tennis championship of Mexico. (International)

You can see for yourself that there is a real intimacy between Miss Louise Fortune and "Little Vamp," which she exhibited at the Long Branch dog show. (International)